The scoutmaster met Garfield's mother, who told him that the victim did not have a father figure in his life at the time. Boewat then began inviting the victim over to his house, where he would masturbate the boy under the guise of teaching him about sex. Eventually the scoutmaster asked Garfield to masturbate him, which he refused to do.
MI	Eaton Rapids Elementary School	not provided	C. Paul Letts	not identified	9	Victim was sexually abused by a scout leader with the BSA in 1962 in Eaton Rapids, Michigan. The abuse was committed by Scoutmaster C. Paul Letts, who was over her brother's scouting troop and also her principal at Eaton Rapids Elementary School where she was in the second grade. The victim wanted to be an office helper and would spend time with the administrative staff running errands. Letts would call her into his office and have her lay on his black leather couch, where he would digitally penetrate her. The victim indicates this occurred multiple times, but the "black leather couch incident" is the one most vivid in her mind. She told her younger brother about the abuse right after it happened and found out that Letts had molested him too in his capacity as scoutmaster.
MI	Camping in Big Rapids	Troop 448	Carl Eugene Reed	not identified	14	Victim was sexually abused by a scout leader with the BSA in the spring of 1984 in Big Rapids, Michigan. The abuse was committed by Scoutmaster Carl Eugene Reed of Troop 448, which was part of the West Michigan Shores Council and sponsored by the John Knox Presbyterian Church in Grand Rapids. While on a camping trip to Big Rapids, the victim was in a large army-style tent where all the scouts were staying. His friend and fellow scout, Robert Cox, was in the tent with him. Scoutmaster Reed came into the tent, accompanied by his son Carl Reed Jr. and Chaplain Tim Brown. The scoutmaster lay down on top of the victim, pinning him to the ground with his weight. He began kissing the boy's neck and biting his ear, while aggressively fondling the victim's genitals and attempting to pull down the boy's pants. Both Reed Jr. and Chaplain Brown were cheering the scoutmaster on. The victim struggled against the assault for nearly five minutes, when his friend, Robert Cox, grabbed a large flashlight and hit the scoutmaster in the head, giving the victim a chance to escape out from under him. Reed threatened the victim and said no one would believe a "poor kid like him" if he told anyone.

NC	camping trips	Troop identification not provided	"Mr. Elam"	not enough info provided	8	Victim was sexually abused by a leader with the Boy Scouts of America in Clarkton, North Carolina beginning in 1969 when he was eight years old. The abuse was committed by a scout leader known to the victim as "Mr. Elam," who was also a preacher at the local Baptist Church. Victim recalls that the abuse began when he was at a Boy Scout camp in Clarkton. Mr. Elam took the victim from the campgrounds to a nearby motel, where he manually molested the boy and forced the victim to masturbate him. Another incident occurred on a scouting trip where the boys were all assigned to bunk beds. Scout leader Elam would come to the victim's bunk and fondle his genitals. The victim went on to indicate that Elam also molested Victim's younger brother, who is 14 months his junior. The victim believes that Elam took advantage of him and his brother because their parents were divorced and they were being raised alone by their mother, as their father had left town.
NC	Camping trips	Cub Scout Troop 206	Charles Nixon	Not Identified	7 to 13 years old	Victim was sexually abused by a leader with the Boy Scouts of America over a period of years from 1956 to 1962 in Wilmington, North Carolina. The abuse was committed by Scout Master Charles Nixon of Cub Scout Pack 206 and a subsequent Boy Scouts troop to which Victim belonged. The victim remembers one specific event occurred at Fort Fisher, about 20 to 30 miles from Wilmington; the other incidents all took place on camping trips in the same area, within a 30-mile radius of his hometown. On the trip to Fort Fisher when the victim was a cub scout, Mr. Nixon lured him away from the scout group one night to go "watch the stars" with him and earn a badge for knowing his constellations. Once in an isolated area, the scout master began to abuse the young boy. Victim recalls at first he didn't understand what was happening due to his tender age, but was taught to trust his elders, especially scout leaders, and therefore let Mr. Nixon abuse him repeatedly. He said he tried to be "respectful" and do what he was told. It wasn't until he was closer to age 12 and a member of the Boy Scouts that he knew the abuse was wrong. Mr. Nixon would come into his tent at nights and molest him on camping trips, even as other boys slept nearby. The abuse continued until the victim was able to obtain the rank of Star, at which time he left the scouts due to the assaults. Victim does not recall the name or type of the sponsoring organization. He does recall that Scoutmaster Nixon had two sons the victim's age in the scouting program at the time he was a member. He also recalls that one of Mr. Nixon's son's later committed suicide as a result of some rumors in their small town about homosexuality that people alleged were caused by his father's abuse of young boys.

NC	severa locations	Troop 786	Thomas J Menghi, Jr	Identified	14	Victim was sexually abused by a troop leader with the Boy Scouts of America in 1973 when he was 14 years old, in Fayetteville, North Carolina. The abuse was committed by Thomas J. Menghi Jr., who was a 20-year old volunteer leader at the time and who had focused his attention on the victim and engaged in grooming behavior with him. The first instance of abuse occurred during the summer of 1973 on a scavenger hunt with a group of scouts. Menghi took the victim and two other boys to a motel and proceeded to show them pornographic magazines. He told them about masturbation, at which time he exposed himself and began to masturbate in front of the boys. One of the other scouts present at the time, Bobby Scott, was also an abuse victim of Menghi, who later committed suicide. The second incident took place in the wintertime of the same year during a holiday food drive in which the scout troop participated. Menghi had a movie projector dropped off and showed both the victim and Bobby Scott a homemade pornographic film. The scout leader then lowered his pants and began to masturbate in front of the boys, encouraging them to do the same. Menghi then reached over and began to masturbate both of the teenagers. The scout leader then began performing oral sex upon the victim, at which time the boy stopped him. Menghi proceeded to orally copulate with Bobby, who allowed it. After that incident, the victim and Bobby discussed the assault and whether they should say something to scout officials about it; however, Bobby did not want to come forward with the information.
